General Upshur Will Give Address

Maj. Gen. William P. Upshur

The role that civilian hospitals will play in time of a national emergency will be discussed by Major General William P. Upshur, commanding general of the Marine Corps Base, at the National Hospital Day program arranged by Paradise Valley Sanitarium and Hospital, Monday, May 12.

In addition to General Upshur's talk, the institution will stage a presentation simulating actual conditions of the battlefield and the care of the wounded. This thrilling sham battle will be presented through the cooperation of the United States Marine Corps.

Hospitals throughout the nation will demonstrate their readiness with fitting programs on National Hospital Day in the event of an emergency in this country.

La Mesa C. of C. To Sponsor Meetings

Of local interest is the announcement of the La Mesa Chamber of Commerce to sponsor a big union meeting of all the Chambers of Commerce in the Grossmont Union High School district, on Thursday evening, May 22. The purpose of the meeting is to have every one get acquainted with the fine plant at the high school, and to have the various departments put on a program.

The meeting will start at 6:45 p.m. with a dinner in the cafeteria, giving a chance for all who attend to get acquainted with one another. After dinner the music, drama, and speech departments will put on an entertaining program.

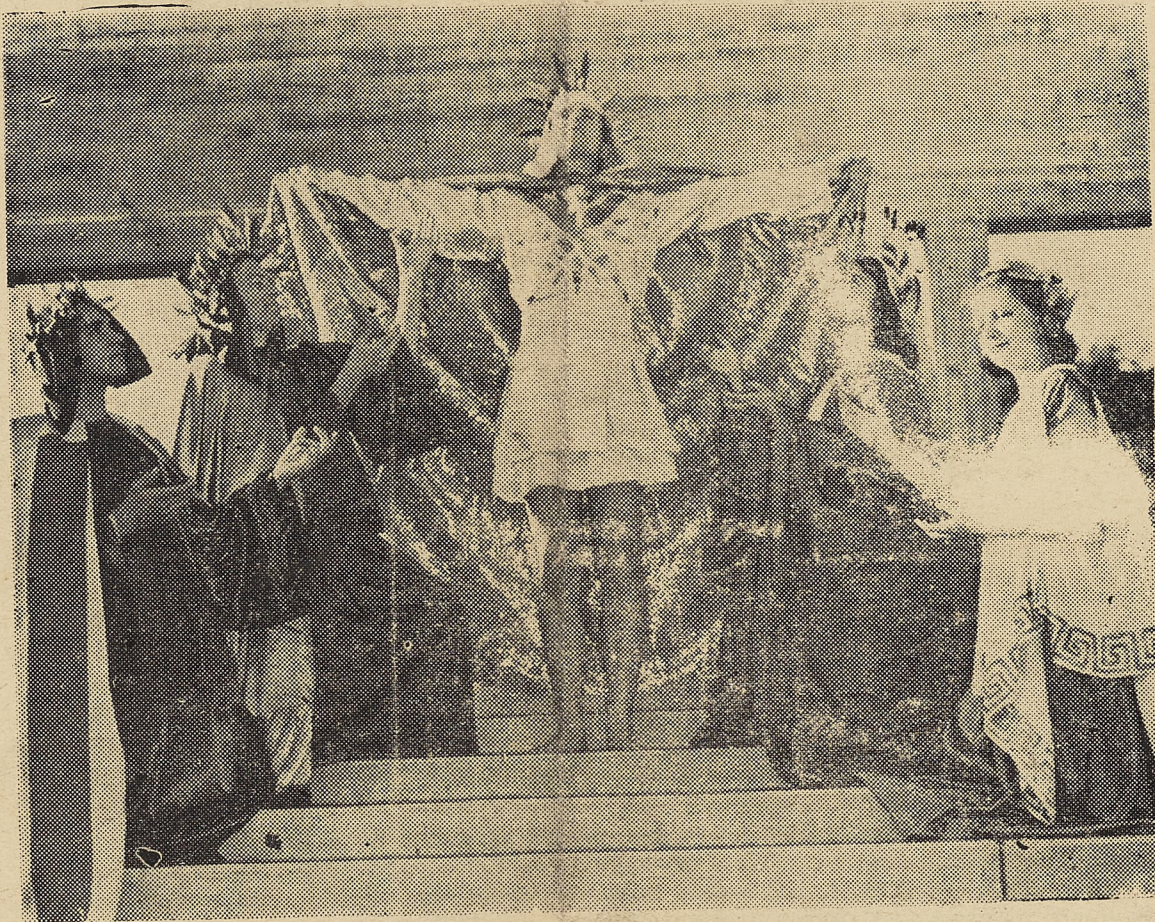

Members of the Chamber of Commerce of Lakeside and all residents who wish to attend are asked to notify E. E. Nelson, secretary of Lakeside C. of C. of the number in their party. This will be ladies night, so make arrangements to attend.

Quiz Feature Added To Friday Dances

Adding variety to their program, the young people's dances will continue each Friday night. On each third Friday a quiz program will take the place of a dance. Henry Worsham and Edna Frank will act as Quizmasters.

House committee for the affairs, which have been very successful, are Mr. E. E. Nelson, Mr. Miles Vance, Mrs. Rene Fair, and Mrs. Kouns.

Greek Play To Be Presented

San Diego State college students James Lowell, Kent Bush, Jim Fairchild, Gypsy Holli-day, and Eva Caldwell, left, right, are taking part in the college's production of the Greek play "Admetus." Fairchild portrays "Apollo;" in the story his robe blinds all who gaze upon it.

To Dedicate New Theatre

Torches in procession. . .
Massed voices in chorus. . .
Dancers in flashing costume.

Highlights of drama, song and pageantry such as these will mark San Diego State college's production of "Admetus," a 1941 reflection of the grandeur of ancient Greece, in the college's newly dedicated Open Air theater May 16.

All the energy of faculty members and hundreds of students has been summoned in the creation of the spectacle, which was written and presented nearly three decades ago by Irving Outcalt, college vice-president emeritus.

More than $1,200 has been budgeted for the production, which is the largest amount ever devoted to a dramatic presentation in 40 years of such work at the college. The purchase of materials for the costumes has necessitated a $500 expenditure. The 200 costumes are being designed and made by students of the art department and members of the college Patron's club.

A novel casting has been arranged with the actors divided into two groups, one doing the acting on stage, the other taking the speaking parts from behind the stage.

Ladies To Present Famed Dinner

A name famous in Lakeside and farther is the word Jitney Dinner. The Ladies Aid of the Lakeside Community Church are responsible for that fame, because they always serve such a variety of good dishes. Remember that apple roll?

Another of those Jitney Dinners will be served by the Ladies on Thursday, May 15 at 6:30 in the Church dining hall. After the dinner there will be a program of entertainment.

DAIRYMEN GATHER FOR ANNUAL PICNIC

The annual Dairy Picnic will be held at the Mountain Meadow Ranch, Jacumba on Saturday, May 17, according to Walter Conley of Solano Beach, chairman of the Farm Bureau Dairy Department.

"The Dairy Picnic is a tradition in this county, and is always well attended by local dairymen, their families and members of the industry," continued Mr. Conley. "O. E. Adams, manager of Mountain, will be our host on May 17. A barbecue with all the trimmings is promised. All dairymen attending are urged to make reservations early."

Hugh Good, Santee dairyman is in charge of the entertainment. Mr. Good promises an interesting and educational program will soon be announced.

Mr. C. S. Bond, a dairyman of many years' standing, in Mission Valley, is cooperating with Mr. Adams in making sure there will be plenty of food on hand to feed the hungry dairymen.

There have been many inquiries about the map of Lakeside that is being sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club. It is a pleasure to report that the map is "coming along" in grand style.

The project is receiving almost unanimous approval both by the business houses and individuals. The aim of the club is to make the map 100 per cent Lakeside.

Only enough copies of the map will be made to supply the advance orders so be sure to place your order. Don't be a "I wish I had." Be on the map!

There are only a few days before the map will be printed so do not delay! Tell the neighbors. Tell all the folks!

Citrus Diseases To Be Discussed

The University of California Agricultural Extension Service in cooperation with R. R. McLean, Dean Palmer and the local inspectors of the San Diego County Agricultural Commissioner's office will conduct a series of meetings at which information on the best methods to control the most troublesome citrus and avocado pests and diseases will be presented.

May 15, Chu'a Vista, 2:00 p.m. San Diego County Insectary, 511 G Street.

May 17, El Cajon, 10:00 a.m., C. S. Judson Ranch.

Walter Binney, deputy inspector of the San Diego County Insectary, extends an invitation to all citrus and avocado growers to visit the insectary. He will describe the process of producing cryptolae-mus and the use of these and other predators in the control of harmful scale and insect pests on citrus and avocados.

At El Cajon inspectors Tom Ballantyne and Fred Thorne will tell of the present status of insect control work in that area and will show specimens of silver mite injury on lemons and mealy bug on avocados.

Townsend Club News

Townsend Club No. 2 will hold their next meeting on Saturday evening, May 10, at the Civic Center as usual. Refreshments and dancing will follow. A. L. Rose, vice president, asks all members to attend this meeting.

On Saturday evening, May 17 the Ladies Auxiliary will have their pot luck supper which will be followed by a performance of the Dixey Harvey entertainers and dancers. The remainder of the evening will be taken up by dancing. Music will be furnished by the Dixey Orchestra. All are invited to attend and enjoy a pleasant evening.

County Fair Binds City And Country

William L. Edie

The San Diego County Fair is the foremost medium through which to create a closer relationship between city and county interests, in the opinion of William L. Edie, San Diego business man who is first vice president of the 22nd District Agricultural Association.

"The County Fair gives everyone an opportunity to get acquainted with the agricultural and horticultural aspects of this area, and the people whose activities contribute so substantially to the county's progress and development," he said.

"With the new San Diego growth, the whole county will benefit agriculturally and horticulturally, and the Fair this year should achieve new high records for variety of exhibits and attendance."

Edie, a native of New York state, was with a canning firm 10 years before he came to San Diego in 1933 and established himself in a similar business. He is a large purchaser of San Diego County fruits and other products, an activity which gave him his first close association with farming interests. He has been a member of the Agricultural Association's board of directors one and one-half years, and is vice president of San Diego Industries, Inc.

With other officers and directors, Edie is giving much time to planning the sixth annual County Fair, to be held at Del Mar in October.

Bring Your Ideas To P.-T. A. Meeting

Instead of Friday the 13, the P. T. A. of the Lakeside Union School are planning a meeting for Tuesday, May 13. All are invited to attend the meeting and bring their ideas for next year's programs. These ideas will be aired at an open discussion.

Hostesses for the meeting will be the first grade mothers.

AN AMERICAN FAVORITE

Remember the feeling of delight you experienced, as a child, when you munched into a peanutbutter sandwich? Here is one fashion that has stuck in the mouths of America's childhood for a long time, and promises to continue. Margaret Lee Runbeck puts it quaintly in the Christian Science Monitor:

"Sometimes I look in Miss Grover's narrow, kind little face, and I think to myself, 'You may look just like a prim little schoolteacher to some people. But to me you're a heroine. For I know what you have to face every single day.'"

Peanutbutter sandwiches.

Twenty-two peanutbutter sandwiches, all wrapped in waxed paper, and tucked in twenty-two lovingly packed lunch boxes. Every day, rain or shine, when Miss Grover wakes up in the morning she must know that at noon, when they all sit around and open their lunches, she's going to have to face the sight and the distinctive odor of twenty-two peanutbutter sandwiches.

There is a peanutbutter conspiracy among them, the young. They agreed upon it just before they were born, evidently. It is the tightest monopoly known to industry. No advertising strategy brought it about; it is no triumph of salesmanship. But it has the small fry of the country in its fanatic grip. Ask any one of them on any street in the land what is his favorite food, and he'll tell you—Peanutbutter sammiches!"

MOTHER'S DAY

Next Sunday is a day to remember. It is Mother's Day.

It is an occasion which many, of course, will pass by with a shrug of the shoulders. Closing their hearts and minds to its real meaning, these will be the ones who call it "sentimental stuff" and let it go at that.

Admittedly, Mother's Day is a day of sentiment, but is it any the less worth honoring because of that? It was sentiment, self-sacrificing devotion and sympathy that one time, years ago, were lavished upon you by the understanding woman in whose honor May 11 has been set aside. She generously gave to you years of loving care and watchful guidance—in many more ways, perhaps, than you ever realized—and did this freely without ever looking for any word of thanks or hope of reward.

Nor does she expect any thanks or reward next Sunday. But isn't it almost certain that some token of remembrance from you on Mother's Day, a message or a gift, will bring her unlooked for happiness?

She will remember—on Mother's Day. Will you?

FRIENDSHIP

The "won't-you-let-me-help-you" things
It's just the little homely things,
The unobtrusive friendly things,
That make our pathway light.

—Grace Haines.

When the heart speaks, however simple the words, its language is always acceptable to those who have hearts.—Mary Baker Eddy.

"FROM SEA TO SHINING SEA"

We think a lot of our country. Right now every American should think about conditions in other countries and thank Heaven that he is living in a promised land.

Because we are so grateful for the advantages we receive, we want a national song to express that gratitude. For years we have deplored the inappropriate words and melody of our national anthem, and experienced a thrill in finding this same attitude beautifully expressed by Helen L. Kaufmann in "From Jehovah to Jazz," (Dodd, Mead). Instead of having a feeling of patriotic gratitude for blessings freely bestowed, that should accompany the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner", an individual with any suggestion of pitch discrimination wants to hold his ears and scream, "Stop!", to the crowd that struggles so desperately to reach the top "f". Primary teachers cannot teach children their country's national anthem with any amount of success because the tune and rhythm are so difficult.

If the melody were all that hampered the singing of our national anthem, this difficulty could easily be remedied by another tune. But do the words written by Francis Scott Key in the heat of battle really express the ideals of America, the land of brotherhood? Past experience and the present trend of national feeling have so conclusively demonstrated that people do not think clearly during war-time hysteria, but follow the dictate of dogmatic hatred. We thoroughly appreciate Francis Scott Key's deep relief on seeing the stars and stripes floating over Fort McHenry after a British attack, but does his song declare the gratitude of a fortunate people? We want to sing of a land of brotherhood between black and white, English and German, a land of freedom of thought and expression, and economic security. We want to know as we sing that these ideals are far from realization, but that America is the place where they can be fulfilled. We want to shout above the increasing rumble of hate, with Mrs. Kaufmann:

"The great national song of America is yet to be written, and we cannot but hope that, despite the precedent of battle as the great stimulus to national songs, it will be a peace product."

Concluding this discussion of national music is the statement that Katharine Lee Bates' hymn, written when no war was being waged, seems to point the way to our author's goal. The stately tune is not so difficult and the words express so majestically the true ideals of a democratic land.

"God shed his grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood,
From sea to shining sea."

Miss Bates also seeks the fulfillment of unrealized ideals:

"God mend thine every flaw."
O that this might be our national song until a greater one is written!

A GOOD WILL PROGRAM

Latin America will not be the comparatively unknown place it is today if two proposals by Good Neighbor spokesmen are adopted; one, providing for the yearly exchange of some 50,000 students between the United States and Latin America, and the other, making the study of Spanish compulsory in our schools. Good neighbors who must work and cooperate with each other should also understand each other's history and aspirations as well. We need, not simply language books, but inter-American history texts, to further not only one nation indivisible but one hemisphere indivisible.

Acquiring health has several advantages over acquiring wealth, not the least of which is that no one tries to borrow it.

Among the instrumentalities of love and peace, surely there can be no sweeter, softer, more effective voice than that of gentle peace-breathing music.—Elihu Burritt.

California's New Soil Conservation Act Soon To Be Put Into Operation

Information presented in this series of articles has been prepared by representatives of the State Extension Service, the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and a local committee working in the interest of a soil conservation district. The general purpose of these articles is to inform the public as to the scope, nature, purposes and expected procedures of soil conservation districts now organizing in California.

Obviously, it is not possible to present all of the information that some may desire. However, a serious attempt has been made in these articles to cover at least the points most commonly brought up for discussion at the meetings. Additional information, may, of course, be obtained from the Extension Service and Soil Conservation Service or from the State Soil Conservation Commission.

A soil conservation district is a local unit of State government which permits communities so organized to manage their own affairs in matters relating to the control of runoff and the prevention and control of soil erosion. It also sets up a legal basis for cooperation with the United States, this State, counties, public districts, other soil conservation districts, persons, associations, and corporations, in matters relating to the control of runoff and to soil conservation through the prevention and control of soil erosion.

Many hold the point of view that a reasonable justification for a soil conservation district is first, the existence of serious problems of soil and water conservation, and second, a serious desire and willingness on the part of a community to solve them by group effort combined with such cooperative outside assistance as may be obtained from those in a position to render such assistance.

The advantage of a district approach in attacking soil and water conservation problems are the usual advantages of organized effort as opposed to uncoordinated individual effort. An additional distinctive advantage is, of course, the establishment of a legal recognized basis for cooperation with agencies of various types able and willing to render positive assistance to the districts.

Among the various types of benefits and assistance reasonably to be expected by soil conservation districts, within the limits of resources available, are the following:

1. The benefits of the district "Program" which outlines the district's problems and aims and also of the district "Work Plan" which outlines in considerable detail such matters as desirable practices and measures to adopt for particular conditions and problems, the best means of applying such practices and measures, and the proper order of doing work both as to time and location. The Program and Work Plan are intended to provide a well conceived long-time overall plan of attack for the district as a unit as well as for individual farms and ranches. Such plans are developed within the district itself, by the district directors assisted by people in the district and by qualified technicians from assisting agencies.

2. Material assistance such as special equipment and planting materials not readily available within the district (seeds, trees, shrubs etc.) The act under which the districts operate also permits the acceptance of possible grants from agencies, individuals and others.

3. The assistance of technical specialists from various agencies and in various fields, for example conservation and range surveyors, a "district conservationist" (who assists directly in preparing conservation plans and in various other ways), Extension specialists, agronomists, agricultural and others, as needed. These various specialists assist the districts—within the limits of their availability and funds—under special agreements drawn up between the districts and the agencies who provide such specialists.

4. The benefits of a "physical survey" made by qualified specialists in this field, the purpose of which is to provide a and erosion conditions, present detailed map and related information as to the soils, slope land use and other related factors. Such data serves as a physical basis to indicate the safe limits for the use of land and the most desirable practices and measures to be used under particular conditions of soil, topography, erosion and other determining factors existing on each farm and field.

5. An educational program, conducted through the district directors, with the assistance of the Extension Service, the Soil Conservation Service and others who may contribute. The intention of such efforts will be primarily to indicate the best methods of soil and water conservation suited to the particular conditions existing within the district. Such a program may involve demonstrations, tours, meetings, publications, personal contacts with operators on their own lands and other suitable means of education.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ Scientist. The Golden Text is from Romans: "If by one man's offense death reigned by one; much more they which receive abundance of grace and of the gift of righteousness shall reign in life by one Jesus Christ."

Scriptural citations include this verse from John: "Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life." And from Luke: "Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold, there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow; and much people of the city was with her. And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not. And he came and touched the bier; and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise. And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak. And he delivered him to his mother."

The Lesson-Sermon presents also these passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Life is, always has been, and ever will be independent of matter; for Life is God, and man is the idea of God, not formed materially but spiritually, and not subject to decay and dust."

Gifts Accompany Courageous Letter

"Our neighbors were undoubtedly dazed at first by their ordeal, but we all accepted our losses with courage, and adapted ourselves to the new way of living very quickly." This courageous note is included in a description of an air raid sent to Mrs. Bessie Mallory by her Glasgow correspondent.

Included with the letter was a beautiful set of napkin holders bearing the Scotch thistle and some very interesting British magazines.

In looking over these magazines, we find it difficult to read the advertisements because of the different terminology. We puzzled over a call for "Left-off clothing" until we decided an American would say "second-hand."

We find that the double-feature rage is current in England also. Most of the pictures advertised are American made. We notice that Jack Benny and the Cisco Kid are popular.

HONORED WITH SHOWER

Mrs. John Angel, former president of Lakeside Junior Woman's Club now residing in San Ysidro, was hostess Wednesday at a luncheon and stork shower honoring Mrs. Lyle Isom. The affair was held at Mrs. Angel's home and was attended by many members of the Junior Woman's Club and other friends of Mrs. Isom's from Lakeside.

BOOK CLUB MEETS

Members of the Wednesday Book Club met Wednesday, May 7 at the home of Mrs. C. A. Hopkins. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Gerald Kibbey in La Mesa on May 21. The last meeting for this season will be a pot luck luncheon to be held early in June at the home of Mrs. Frederic Walker of Santee.

TRIANGLE CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

Triangle Circle of Lakeside Community Church, will hold their first meeting Wednesday evening, May 14, at the home of Mrs. B. R. Brown in Lakeside Farms. The circle was formed last week at the home of Mrs. E. G. Gimble in Eualyptus Grove.

SCHOOLS

By Comfort C. Taylor

The school held its annual May Day picnic last Friday. Everyone seemed to have had an enjoyable time. Many games were played before lunch. After lunch the May Day program was given followed by the fathers' and sons' ballgame. There was also a tug-of-war between the seventh and eighth grades, with the eighth grade winning. The children of the Lakeside school would like to thank the P. T. A. for the delicious lunch that was served.

MAY DAY BREAKFAST ENJOYED BY MANY

One of the outstanding affairs of the season was the May Day breakfast held last week by the Lakeside Woman's Club.

Fifty members and friends enjoyed a delicious breakfast served by Mrs. John Andrew and Mrs. G. H. Langworthy. The tables were prettily decorated with May baskets filled with red, white and blue sweet peas. Other baskets of flowers in the same colors, elsewhere in the clubroom, carried out the patriotic motif.

Mrs. Frank Marcy of San Diego was the speaker and her topic was "Old Silver and Porcelain." She illustrated her talk by showing many samples from her own collection.

Many of the serving dishes used for the breakfast were lovely pieces of old silverware and chinaware loaned for the occasion by Mesdames George Curtis, F. L. Lake, Clay Hopkins, Edward Dwyer of Lakeside and Mrs. John Andrew, Sr. of San Diego.

Another beautiful collection of old silverware was brought by Mrs. J. J. Flint of Chula Vista. Mrs. Arthur Johnson, of San Diego, daughter of Mrs. Marcy was a special guest.

LARKINS RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Josie Larkins, manager of the Main Street Cafe, was all smiles again Wednesday. The reason was that was the day her husband, Clyde Larkins came home from the hospital. Mr. Larkins has been very ill for the past month from injuries received when he fell from a stool at the cafe.

CLASSMATES VISIT LANGWORTHYS

A most pleasurable afternoon was enjoyed last Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Langworthy when two of their high school classmates called on them. The visitors were Mrs. Clara Masters of Alpena, Michigan and Mrs. Frank Kelley of Terrytown, N. Y., who are on a 60 day tour of the Pacific Coast.

NYA Official Appointed To State Board of Education

Edward J. "Bud" Cummings

Governor Culbert L. Olson's appointment of Edward Cummings of Bakersfield to the State Board of Education was confirmed by the Senate by a unanimous vote. Cummings, a graduate of Santa Clara University where he was a football star, was born in Tehachapi, is married and has two sons. In 1934 he went to Santa Barbara State College as a student and coach of freshman athletics. For the last five years he has been National Youth Administration representative for the Central California district, comprising the territory from Ventura County to San Francisco and from Kern to San Joaquin. Cummings has the unique distinction of being the only recent candidate for the State Board of Education who has not had to appear before the Senate Rules Committee.

FUTURE FARMERS SPEAK AT MEETING

The avocado department of the San Diego County Farm Bureau will meet at the Jordan Cafe in Escondido, 6:30 p. m., Tuesday, May 13, at which time members will have an opportunity to hear the five Future Farmers who are contestants for the avocado cooperative marketing speaking contest prizes offered by Calavo Growers of California, California Walnut Growers Association, Poultry Producers of California, California Citrus Exchange, and other farmer cooperative marketing organizations, according to an announcement made by chairman Wm. Bevan. Bevan stated that among other important business to be considered was the holding of the spring avocado department social meeting at which it was planned for members and their wives to enjoy a special entertainment program in the coastal area, and the final arrangements together with definite reservations for the avocado tour to be made on May 28 and 29 by growers from San Diego County through Orange, Los Angeles, Ventura and Santa Barbara County avocado areas.

FAVORITE FOODS IN NEW FORM

There's never a time when a woman can't use some clever new menu ideas for her family. When she must plan and serve nearly eleven hundred meals a year, it's an exceptional homemaker whose imagination doesn't lag a bit now and then!

If you're tired of preparing the same old foods, in the same old fashion, why not try some simple, new seasoning and serving tricks with the old familiar dishes?

These Spicy Baked Pork Chops are a delightful example of the amazingly good meals you can produce with the help of a little housewifely imagination and a well-stocked condiment shelf.

SPICY BAKED PORK CHOPS

6 pork chops
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons fat
2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon black pepper
10 whole cloves
1 clove garlic
1/4 cup vinegar
1 cup boiling water
2 tablespoons brown sugar

Roll chops in flour and saute slowly in fat until browned. Place in casserole. Sprinkle with salt and pepper; add cloves and garlic. Combine vinegar, water, and sugar and pour around chops. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Remove garlic; thicken gravy if desired. Serves 6.

The vinegar in this recipe works flavor wonders on the pork chops, giving them a taste that's unusual and delicious. Vinegar adds subtle flavor to baked ham, as well, when it's used as part of the liquid for basting, or as an ingredient in the paste that covers the entire ham. It gives plain, everyday pot roast of beef an entirely new taste when it's used with spices to marinate the meat for a day or two before it's cooked.

Serve the Spicy Baked Pork Chops with scalloped potatoes, buttered waxed beans, and an old-fashioned Apple Pan Dowdy for the kind of meal that wins compliments for the cook!

Dried beef lends itself to use in so many colorful and tasty dishes that no food supply shelf is quite complete without a glass jar or two being included. As for recipe user, well, Dried Beef and Noodles are about as popular a pair as can be found, but you don't know how good they are until you've tried them in this satisfying combination. The just-right salty tang of dried beef, the bland flavor of noodles, and the rich, nutty flavor of peanut butter unite to make Dixie Casserole of Frizzled Beef and Noodles a menu success. Served with a crisp green salad, crusty bread or rolls, a simple dessert, and beverage, it makes a completely satisfying meal.

DIXIE CASSEROLE OF FRIZZLED BEEF AND NOODLES

2 cups cooked noodles
3 1/2-ounce jar dried beef, cut in pieces
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons bacon fat or butter
1/2 cup peanut butter
1 1/2 cups milk
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/4 teaspoon celery salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 pimiento, chopped
1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs

Slowly saute dried beef, onions, and celery in fat or butter. Place peanut butter, milk, salt, pepper, celery salt, and Worcestershire sauce in bowl and beat with a rotary beater until smooth. Add noodles, dried beef mixture, and pimiento. Pour into greased baking dish; top with buttered crumbs and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes. Serves 6.

STATE COLLEGE TO GET ADDITION THROUGH PURCHASE

SACRAMENTO, — The San Diego State College was virtually assured of an additional 80 acres of property as the Senate Committee on Finance recommended unanimously "do pass" Assembly Bill 1322, sponsored by Assemblyman Paul Richie, San Diego Democrat.

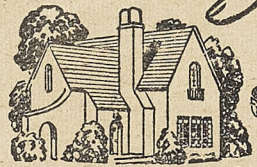

The bill provides that the state purchase for the sum of $21,000 property adjoining the present campus from the estate of Mrs. Bruce Waring, whose husband donated the original 125 acres now comprising the campus to the state.

In securing the passage of the bill Assemblyman Richie pointed out that "the increasing value of property and the rapid development of the adjacent property, combined with the rapid growth of San Diego and the college, made it seem imperative to insure possession of the property in preparation for adequate facilities to meet the expansion."

CAN'T RUST

HOME BUILDERS Attention

A Monel or Copper Automatic Water Heater is a good investment whether you are building a home to live in, rent or sell.

Everyone wants worry-free, dependable water heating service and it only takes one little accident to offset the difference in cost. In a typical FHA contract the added cost of a Monel or Copper rust-proof heater would seldom exceed 33 1/2 cents a month.
